RUMANIA INVADIED AFTER ANNIHILATION OF HER TWO INVADING ARMIES

GERMANS UNDER GENERAL KRAFFT SWEEP TO SOUTH

Red Tower Pass Captured and Teutons Cross Line from the North for the First Time

FALKENHAYN IS SMASHER

Second Rumanian Army Is Thrown Across Geister Mountains to Alt Valley

BERLIN, via Wireless to Sayville, L. I., Oct. 11.—German troops under General Von Krafft, after capturing the Red Tower pass, have marched southward and invaded Rumania from the north for the first time since the beginning of the war, it was semi-officially announced Wednesday.

The first and second Rumanian armies that invaded Transylvania have been annihilated by the Austro-Germans, who are sweeping the enemy back upon their own frontier. The northern army, composed of Rumanians and Russians, has begun to waver and is retreating hastily through the Georgen mountains beyond Paralt.

Falkenhayn, having annihilated the Rumanian army, turned at once against the second Rumanian army and rolled it up from west and south with an irresistible attack that broke the enemy's oppositions on the Sinka river and threw the Rumanians across the mountains of the Geister wood into the Alt valley.

Twelve Dropped By Bullets In Strike Rioting

BAYONNE, N. J., Oct. 11.—Police with Winchester and automatics on Wednesday patrolled "The Hook" district near the great Standard Oil company plants, where four patrolmen and eight strikers fell Tuesday during a riot.

The district was a storm center of disorder in a similar strike of Standard Oil workers a year ago, when six strikers were killed. The riot Tuesday occurred when several hundred strikers pushed a flat car across a street car track in an attempt to block traffic and isolate the entire industrial district at the lower end of the long peninsula on which the city lies. They hope to force workmen from the Tidewater oil plant to join the strike. Eighty patrolmen armed with Winchester and sawed off shotguns attempted to remove the flat car, the police reported, and were fired on. Before the fight ended twelve had been dropped by bullets.

Six thousand strikers were out on Wednesday, leaders reported.

BERLIN, via Wireless to Sayville, L. I., Oct. 11.—Three German submarines shelled and heavily damaged the Russian radio station at Yepovalok, on the Murman coast, along the Arctic sea, said Copenhagen reports Wednesday. One mast was shot down and several men killed.

A Christiana newspaper reported Tuesday that a Russian destroyer sank two German submarines and crippled a third off Yepovalok.

VIRTUAL BLOCKADE OF AMERICAN PORTS CONCERNS WILSON

Lansing Sees President and Has Long Conference on Problems Raised by Work of U-Boat

SHARP ACTION DEMANDED

Steps May Be Taken Immediately to Secure Information as to Kaiser's Future Intentions

BY ROBERT J. BENDER
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Oct. 11.—Secretary of State Lansing left for Washington shortly before 9 o'clock, after a long conference with President Wilson Tuesday night on new problems raised by activities of the German submarine U-52 off the American coast.

The impression prevails here that Germany acted entirely in accordance with her promises to this government in her operations on British shipping off Nantucket shoals on Sunday.

While methods employed by the commander of the U-53 appear to comply with this government's stipulations, the larger question concerning the administration now is whether the United States can tolerate further submarine activities outside her port, menacing commerce and constantly exposing to danger the lives of American men, women and children. Scores of telegrams have been received by the president from business interests demanding that sharp reminders must be given Germany that she cannot virtually "blockade the ports of the United States." Some advise that the action of this government should not be limited to mere protest.

It is likely that steps will be taken at once to get further information as to Germany's future intentions. If these have not already been taken—and to determine whether Germany plans to make her campaign against enemy shipping on this side of the Atlantic permanent.

BULGARS BEATEN AND THE BRITISH CLOSE IN ON SERES

English Within Two Miles of Greek City in the New Macedonian Offensive

SERBS MENACE MONASTIR

Heights Commanding Serb Fortress City Being Fought Desperately For by Bulgars and Serbs

LONDON, Oct. 11.—British troops have arrived within two miles of the Greek city of Seres in their new offensive against the Bulgars. It was officially announced Wednesday. A Bulgarian cavalry detachment operating two miles south of Seres was dispersed and driven back.

An Athens dispatch Wednesday reported that the Serbs captured the village of Schochivir and then pressed on and attacked the heights. Capture of this strong position will be followed by the fall of Monastir, Athens reported.

On the allied right wing, the British are steadily driving the Bulgars back upon the Demirhisar-Seres railway, objective of the present British advance. Eight villages have been captured since British forces took the offensive.

In Transylvania reinforcements are stiffening the resistance of the Rumanians though Berlin dispatches Wednesday claimed further advances for the Teutons. The fighting in Dobrudja has reached a deadlock.

HEARST NEWS SERVICE BARRED FROM BRITISH TRANSMISSION MEDIUMS

LONDON, Oct. 11.—On charges of garbling messages and breach of faith, Hearst's International News Service has been debarred from the press bureau and "from use of all other facilities for the transmission of news," which includes cables and mails controlled by the British government.

The press bureau, in an official statement Tuesday night, charged messages were either altered or manufactured in the New York offices of the International News Service.

TRI-CITY ATTACK ON LAKE RATES LAUNCHED FRIDAY

La Crosse Will Try to Interest Winona and Red Wing in L. C. C. Case to Set Rates

AGAINST RAIL MERGER

Cities Practically Lose Water Economies Since Divorce of Lake and Rail Carriers

A tri-city combination for obtaining joint lake-and-rail through rates by means of a complaint to the interstate commerce commission will be launched on Friday, it became known Wednesday at the offices of the Chamber of Commerce, where it was announced that Commissioner W. W. West of the traffic bureau and Executive Secretary James R. Kinsloe of the Chamber will attend a meeting Friday in Winona, at which an organization will be effected between La Crosse, Winona and Red Wing shippers.

The three cities will file a petition with the federal rate-making body, according to tentative plans, demanding that through rates be established between the railroads entering the three communities and the Great Lakes Transit corporation, a concern which practically controls lake shipping. The Great Lakes Transit is the corporation into which were merged practically all of the lake lines owned by railroads, divorced last fall under provisions of the Panama canal act.

At the offices of the traffic bureau Wednesday it was said that in the last year the absence of lake-and-rail rates has cost La Crosse between $6,000 and $7,000. The effect on Winona and Red Wing is said to have been similar.

The plan is in line with the recent intervention of the La Crosse traffic bureau in the "Cat Line" case at Washington, by which the Grand Trunk railway petitioned to maintain its ownership of the Canada Atlantic Transportation line. The "Cat Line" Grand Trunk rates and rates made by the Lehigh Valley, are the only through lake-and-rail rates which La Crosse has enjoyed since the close of navigation in the fall of 1915. The Lehigh Valley has been operating its boats under an injunction.

Since the merger of the lines formerly owned by the railroads, the structure of lake-and-rail rates has been overthrown and La Crosse, with practically all other inland cities, has lost all benefit of water transportation economy.

CHICAGO CITY HALL RAIDED BY HOYNE IN WAR ON VICE

Raid Was One of Most Sensational Performances in History of Major City

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—All night detectives from the office of State's Attorney Hoyne guarded the city hall vaults where the letters of Police Chief Healy and Mayor Thompson were deposited. By their side sat policemen detailed by Healy. These documents were to be taken into the grand jury room Wednesday. Thompson and Healy were under summons.

These events followed the raid of Hoyne's men on the city hall late Tuesday, one of the most sensational performances in a major city. Hoyne claims to have evidence that the administration, aided by its control of the police, has protected vice, gambling and Sunday saloons, so long as the offender was "right" politically. The raid on the Sportsman's club, of which Mayor Thompson was at one time president, was an earlier link in the chain.

Hoyne is the democratic candidate for election. He has been bitterly opposed by the republican city administration.

GENUINE BARGAINS SLOGAN OF GREAT DOLLAR DAY PLAN

Committee in Charge Insists That All Merchants Offer Real Opportunities to the Shoppers

NEXT WEDNESDAY DATE

Special Window Decorations and Other Publicity Stunts Are Contemplated

"Dollar Day Bargains are Genuine Bargains."

With this slogan prominent up to the front, to be backed by fact as well as publicity, the Dollar Day committee of the Merchants' bureau of the Chamber of Commerce got down to work on Tuesday at a vigorous campaign for the big event, scheduled to be held in La Crosse Wednesday, October 18. The committee will claim participation of all the merchant members of the chamber.

A committee composed of Messrs. E. C. Josten, Harry Burrows, Alex. Rose and Harry Newburg will have charge of the arrangements and unusual efforts will be made to attract out-of-town, as well as local customers for an inspection of the bargains which will be presented by local firms. It is urged that the participating stores make an early start toward listing their individual contributions to the bargain total and that they proceed to wage a vigorous advertising campaign in advance of the occasion. This campaign should eclipse in scope anything hitherto attempted along similar lines.

Special attention will be paid to attractive window displays for that day, as this is held a most important link in the success of such an event.

Value as Trade Builder

One member of the special committee on "Dollar Day" is quoted as follows:

"In the opportunity to display their stock to the horde of La Crosse people and visitors and through this medium to lay a permanent foundation for new trade, the merchants unanimously agree that the greatest worth of the event is to be found."

"As a quickener of trade nothing is better than 'Dollar Day' if properly conducted. It means to any and all stores participating a larger number of customers who will subsequently prove themselves the best on the books, and originally attracted to the stores through visitation in search of bargains on 'Dollar Day.'"

"The success of the day will depend on the co-operation which features its setting. It is much better not to promise anything than to promise something and not deliver the goods. By the same token, it is bad to advertise 'Dollar Day' as a valuable medium of trade from the customers' viewpoint, and then not deliver the goods."

The committee arranging the "Dollar Day" is measured primarily in the genuineness of the bargains sold. At such a sale customers rightfully expect to purchase standard, staple articles at big reductions, and are not to be trifled with on this score.

Genuine Bargains

"Dollar Day Bargains are Genuine Bargains" is the slogan that La Crosse merchants should adopt for Wednesday, October 18, and for all future "Dollar Days."

To the above Executive Secretary Kinsloe adds:

"Dollar Day" in common with any other unusual event, depends for its success on the amount of publicity it receives. Not only should the individual merchants advertise in the normal channels freely, but a co-operative nature should be waged for at least one week prior to the sale itself. The aim of such an advertising campaign should be to inform every man, woman and child in the vicinity: first, the date of the sale, then, the general nature of the day, and finally induce them to read the bargain advertisements of every merchant co-operating in the sale. The person who needs an article is bound to buy it if he knows it will be sold at a bargain."

To Fight M. O. Houses

Continuing, Secretary Kinsloe quotes Herman Rosenthal, advertising manager for a Chicago mail order house. M. Rosenthal recently appeared before the American Ad. Club and introduced the club to one of the methods by which his company extends its trade. Before the American Ad. club Mr. Rosenthal is quoted as follows:

"We have a bureau whose duty it is to read, each week, the country newspapers from all over the country. There is not a paper of any consequence in our trade territory that our bureau does not get. This bureau looks over these papers, and when it finds a town where the merchants are not advertising in the local paper, we immediately flood that territory with our literature. It always brings results far in excess of the same effort put forth in a territory where the local merchants all the time use their local paper."

"This statement," said Secretary Kinsloe, "lets the cat out of the bag. Where the business men are aggressive they advertise the mail order houses have a hard time to gain ground where the local merchants are wide awake."

BOSTON COMES BACK AND TAKES FOURTH GAME OF WORLD SERIES HELPED BY BROOKLYN'S ERRORS

BUILDING IMPROVEMENTS IN YEAR ARE VALUED AT ABOUT MILLION AND HALF

Big Cavern Found Under Corner Where Traffic is Heavy

A hundred-foot square of concrete, six inches thick, has been supporting for weeks, perhaps months, heavy traffic across the street intersection at Fourth and Mississippi street, it became known late Tuesday when the board of public works discovered that a great cavern had been opened under the corner by the settling of the ground. The cave covered nearly the entire intersection, and in places was high enough for a man to stand.

Heavy brewery trucks and automobiles use the street constantly, and it is regarded as providential that one of the big vehicles has not gone through the shallow pan of concrete which roofed over the cavern.

The cave-in is believed due to the settling of filling placed in one of the old fire-cisterns, which were in use before the city water system was installed. Several of the cisterns are scattered about over the city, and it is probable that all will be examined to see that similar conditions do not exist elsewhere.

City workmen were busy on Wednesday dumping sand into the cave beneath the street.

BIG BANQUET FOR RIVER MEET SWAN SONG OF THE M. & J.

After Appropriation Has Been Expended in Elaborate Feast the Club Will Quietly Expire

An elaborate banquet for delegates to the Upper Mississippi River Improvement association will be the swan song of the old Manufacturers and Jobbers club, still maintained as a separate entity although its membership has been absorbed into the Chamber of Commerce. At a meeting between a special committee for the purpose, appointed before the organization of the chamber, and a similar body from the convention bureau of the chamber, plans for the feast were laid Tuesday evening. It is understood that after the banquet, which is planned to set a new record in its line for this city, the M. & J. will seek out a quiet place and unobtrusively vote itself out of corporate existence.

The banquet which will be given by the M. & J. with the co-operation of the chamber has been planned for nearly a year. A special committee headed by A. P. Funk was appointed to care for it, and a sum set aside in the treasury. The committee also included D. W. MacWillie, Frank Sisson and L. H. Martin. These are now to be aided in their work by a Chamber of Commerce committee consisting of H. H. Long, P. M. Gelett, W. F. Hurlgen, C. A. Hunt and C. B. Krueger.

Many stunts are planned for the banquet, which will be held the first night of the convention, October 25. Its locale has not been decided, but it is known that a cabaret-style program of exceptional merit will be given. Delegates will be guests at the feast, and $2.00 a plate will be charged La Crosse guests.

Joseph Hambuechen was placed in charge of the reception committee for the convention at Tuesday's meeting.

CHENEY GOES IN FOR MARQUARD AFTER FIVE RUNS

Rube Gives It Up After Being Touched for Four Runs in Five Frames

SOX WANT TO FINISH UP

Boss of Champions Demands Men Close In and Finish the National Leaguers

EBBETS FIELD, Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 11.—Boston made it three and one Wednesday, taking the fourth game of the world series in the slowest and raggedest exhibition to date. Brooklyn used three pitchers, but none were able to stop the flying Red Sox.

Gardner, who lammed out a homer Tuesday, repeated with excellent results in the second, when he caught one on the seam with two men ahead of him on the bases. Hobbs and Lewis trotted home easily, and Gardner had laid such force behind his bat that he slid in with a trifle to spare before it could be relayed back from deep center. Lewis was also one of the batting stars, with a double and a triple in his first three trips to the pan.

Boston had the edge in the sticking early in the game. It was not until the third inning that Marquard really got down to business with his shots, and by that time the Red Sox had three runs shelved. But when they landed another in the fourth, the Rube was retired. Pfeffer took his place at bat, but Cheney went on the mound when the Dodgers took the field. Cheney showed well from the start. In the sixth his splitter was deadly. Three Boston sluggers fanned in that one frame.

Brooklyn's Tuesday fighting form seemed a trifle dulled, and the punch was lacking. It was noticeable in the second, when, with Marquard going bad, Wheat dropped Scott's long fly and let the better get to second, and again in the seventh when Cheney's wild throw to first let a run come home on what should have been an easy infield out. Rucker was on the hill for the Dodgers in the next inning.

Threatened with having the world's series knotted on them, the Boston Red Sox Wednesday afternoon squared off against the Dodgers, determined to return home for tomorrow's game with the edge still in their favor.

Ready again with their justly celebrated defense, they clashed with the wild, walloping crew of Squire Ebbets, grimly cognizant of the fact that a defeat today will plunge them into an air-tight fifty-fifty position. A victory would mean winding up the series tomorrow, providing the Boston bunch repeats at home.

The strongest point of the American leaguers, the hurling corps, has not yet been used up in the present series. Dutch Leonard, one of the brightest of the Carrigan pitchers, still was in reserve and expected to be called.

An hour before the game a capacity bleacher crowd was basking in the warm sun which beamed from a cloudless sky. In the air in the shadows, however, there was a crisp feeling.

First Inning
BOSTON—Hooper up: Ball one; ball two; strike one; strike two; Hooper out, Marquard to Merkle. Janvri up: Strike one; ball one; ball two; foul, strike two; ball three; fanned, swinging at last one. Walker up: Ball one; strike one; strike two; fanned, last one called. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Walker fanned on two fast ones at which he swung and the third was a wide curve.

Second Inning
BOSTON—Hobby up: Ball one; strike one; ball two; strike two; ball three; walked. Lewis up: Ball one; strike one; ball two; Lewis doubled to right, Hobbs going to third. Gardner up: Ball one; ball two; ball three; strike one; strike two; foul; Gardner made home run to center.

IT'S A GUESS BUT IT'S A GOOD ONE BASED ON FACTS

Conservative Estimate Puts the City's Population in the Neighborhood of 35,000

What is the population of La Crosse? What is the total cost of building and improvements in La Crosse for the current year?

D. W. MacWillie, manager of the Wisconsin Pearl Button company, asked five prominent citizens the latter question, and the highest estimate was $500,000.

What do you think about it? Following Mr. MacWillie's lead information and deduction were combined to secure the following somewhat speculative but probably not wild conclusions:

The present population of La Crosse is not far from 35,000.

Building improvements in La Crosse for 1916 aggregate in the neighborhood of $1,500,000.

The latter may be summarized in this way:

Business district buildings—Roosevelt, Fairbairn, Chamber of Commerce, Linker, Peter Newburg, Rubber Mills, Wisconsin-Minnesota Light and Power company, Flisk, La Crosse theater, Tribune, four garages, Standard Oil, Montague, schools, churches—$950,000.

Approximately 100 residences, $500,000.

Add to this smaller buildings and general improvements, and it seems certain the total will pass $1,500,000.

In 1910 the population of La Crosse was 30,410. Since then several hundred houses have been erected, but today it is almost impossible to find a house for rent. Figure it out.

WORK OF EXTRA SESSION ENDED IN SEVEN HOURS

Soldiers' Ballot Bill and Hansen Amendment to Mail Vote Law Put Through Quickly

BOSSHARD AMENDMENT

Only Change in Bills Is Clause to Validate a Special Election in Milwaukee

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—Within seven hours after it had assembled in special session the Wisconsin legislature had completed the purposes for which it was summoned.

Two bills were introduced in the assembly Tuesday afternoon. One by Assemblyman Carl Hansen to extend the scope of the voting by mail law so that a person need not appear personally to make application for the ballot to vote. The second by Assemblyman E. A. Everett fixing a method by which the soldiers on the border could vote. Without amendment and after a desultory debate both bills had passed the assembly by 6 o'clock last night. The assembly then adjourned until 9 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Bosshard Makes Change

The assembly bills were immediately messaged to the senate where they were given consideration at 8 o'clock Tuesday night. On motion of Senator Otto Bosshard, La Crosse, an amendment was attached to the Hansen voting by mail bill providing that the measure should not affect the validity of any special election now ordered. This was done to make legal the special election to fill the Fairchild vacancy in Milwaukee.

The old law provided that in the case of a special election the candidates shall be nominated at a primary to be held not less than fifteen days after the order for the primary is issued. The Hansen bill changed the fifteen days to twenty-five days, and it was feared this slight change might affect the legality of the special election in Milwaukee.

Culbertson Only Dissenter

Senator Culbertson of Medina voted against the Hansen voting by mail bill claiming that it was a measure of too great importance to be hurried through. "The vote on concurrence in

BEULAH FALLS IS BEAUTY SPOT OF MISSISSIPPI

M'GREGOR, Iowa.—(Special).—Among the beauty spots near McGregor that due to the publicity the national park project has given the region, has attracted visitors this summer is Beulah Falls. The place is almost unknown to fame, yet there is not a lovelier bit of scenery in the Upper Mississippi valley.

The falls is a sheet of water varying from two feet to eight and ten feet in width dash down over a succession of rock ledges on the near-perpendicular side of a rocky bluff into a canon beautiful with ferns and trees and wild greenery of many kinds. Several large springs form the origin of the falls. The waters are the source of Bloody Run, the fierce little stream that tears seven miles down the canon to North McGregor and the Mississippi river. Beulah Falls may be reached by a short walk and climb from the little station of Beulah west of North McGregor on the I. and D. division of the Milwaukee road or by a drive of a few miles from McGregor. It is accessible to tourists from both the North Iowa Pike and East Iowa Scenic Trail.

Old Resident Dies

The funeral of Mrs. Katherine Kohl Kramer, one of the oldest residents of McGregor was held yesterday at the home. She had been in feeble health due to her advanced age for some years.

Mrs. Kramer was born in Germany Dec. 6, 1830. At the age of nineteen she came to America, the trip across the Atlantic in those days of slow travel requiring fifty-three days. In 1855 she was married to Jacob Kramer at Prairie du Chien. They moved to McGregor shortly afterwards and this has been her home since. Both Mrs. Kramer and her husband were founders of the German Evangelical church here and previous to the building of the church their home was used for church services for several years. They had completed fifty-seven years of married life when the husband died four years ago. Eleven children were born to them, seven of whom, six sons and one daughter survive. Five of the sons and their families are residents of McGregor. The other son Fred Kramer and the daughter Mrs. Walter Warley reside on farms near Charleston, N. D.

REMEDY FOR NEURASTHENIA

Neurasthenia is a condition of exhaustion of the nervous system. The causes are varied. Continuous work, mental or physical, without proper vacation periods, without proper attention to diet and exercise, also worry over the struggle for success, are the most common causes. Excesses of almost any kind may produce it. Some diseases, like the grip, will cause neurasthenia. So also will a severe shock, intense anxiety or grief.

The symptoms are oversensitiveness, irritability, a disposition to worry over trifles, headaches, possibly nausea. The treatment is one of nutrition of the nerve cells, requiring a non-alcoholic tonic. As the nerves get their nourishment from the blood the treatment must be directed towards building up the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood and have proved of the greatest benefit in many cases of neurasthenia. A tendency to anemia, or bloodlessness, shown by most neurasthenic patients, is also corrected by these tonic pills.

Two useful books "Diseases of the Nervous System" and "What to Eat and How to Eat" will be sent free by Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Whether she encountered one or two submersibles, her commander did not know.

A cannon shot across the Patris' bow at six o'clock Monday morning brought her to a halt 220 miles off Sandy Hook and off Nantucket. The submarine inspected the Patris by aid of a searchlight and then disappeared. At four o'clock Monday afternoon while sixty miles off Sandy Hook the Patris again sighted a submarine which made no effort to stop her.

DIVINE SARAH IS BACK TO AMERICA

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The divine Sarah Bernhardt returned to America on Tuesday for still another goodbye. She arrived on the Espagne and as usual monopolized 90 per cent of the attention.

She was just a little older looking. She wanted that made plain. Inside, she insisted she's as young as she was forty years ago. And from the flash of her eyes, except when "her bleeding France" was mentioned, tended to corroborate her claim.

OBJECT LESSON IN STATE PATRIOTISM

William Kertz may be fifty, and he may be seventy. There's a steel engraved firmness about those dry-farm bred Kansans—it's like trying to guess the age of a piece of statuary. Kansas is dry and the sea is wet, yet of either might Lord Byron have said: "Time writes no wrinkles on thine azure brow."

But it isn't the age of Mr. Kertz that counts, it's the fact that he's from Kansas. He's a Kansan all over, inside and out, through and through, hide, tallow and disposition. Natoma, Kansas, is his home, and Natoma is in Osborne county. Just now he's a guest of Paul Coellnel, Oak Grove greenhouse, La Crosse, Wisconsin, but he's from Kansas, and don't you forget it.

"Read that, please," said Mr. Kertz. He thrust a copy of the Natoma (Kansas, mind you) "Independent" into the editor's hand. His thumb indicated the following paragraph:

The recent call for statements from all banks shows a big increase in the amount of deposits since the last statement last June. And the Osborne county banks rank high among those of the state. The county raised two or three million bushels of wheat, which has brought an immense sum of money to the farmers, and it is not yet nearly all marketed.

The Osborne Farmer states that the three national banks alone had funds on deposit sufficient to pay to every man, woman and child in the county $72 each. And there are seven other banks in the county. If the total deposits were divided it is likely there would be above $150 each, and the deposits represent but a small part of the wealth of the county.

"That's my county—Osborne," said Mr. Kertz. "Now, this is my state." The guiding thumb left a Bertillon index upon this comment:

Kansas grew as much wheat in dollars and cents from her soil in 1915 as all the United States from the Atlantic to the Pacific and the lakes to the gulf grew out of the soil in the shape of gold metal. It just about balances, dollar for dollar, with wheat slightly in the lead. And all of twenty-two of these United States are considered in the gold production, compared with the one state of Kansas, in wheat. Which is the more valuable, gold or golden grain? The small boy at the primary grade could answer that with one hand tied behind him.—Empire.

"I'd like mighty well to have you print it," said Mr. Kertz, wistfully. He was looking far away, his mind in Kansas.

"You see," continued this fine old "Sunflower," "everywhere I go people have an idea Kansas is the American Sahara. They think of poverty and famine. They seem to wonder where I got the money, or to suspect I walked up here. Down in Kansas we know Wisconsin is a great state. We talk about its law and its products. Now I want a square deal for Kansas."

He'll get it—you gotta give it to him! And it is worth while, too, as an object lesson. While our hats are off to Kansas, the state that has more automobiles in proportion to population than any other in the union, we indulge the wish that every son of Wisconsin who adventures in other fields may wear on his shoulder a chip from the Badger pine tree and in his heart a home loyalty as great as that which swells the arteries of William Kertz, Natoma, Osborne county, Kansas.

TYPES OF A SINGLE SPECIES

Progressive republicans who are supporting Mr. Hughes are not apologists for the republican acts in disapproval of which they once deserted the party, but they declare emphatically their faith in Hughes—the man. Progressive democrats point with equal assurance to the progressive record of Wilson, as far beyond the average of his party.

The interesting thing about it is that both claims are true. The experiences of the two leaders have been much the same. As governor of New York, Hughes threw out the party bosses and banished graft from the state house; he compelled the enactment of much modern legislation despite the opposition of the old guard. As governor of New Jersey Wilson kicked out the bosses and made a fine progressive record. One might make the record of one pass for the record of the other by merely interchanging "York" and "Jersey."

It is also true that there is a powerful element in each party that is opposed to the policies of the party leaders. Wilson's nomination was forced upon them at Baltimore; Hughes' nomination was forced upon them at Chicago. The Penrose-Smoother combination is offset by the Underwood group. Unless he dominate this element in his own party, neither man will amount to "a peppercorn" as president so far as domestic administration goes. Judged by the past, either man will go far toward attaining that dominance.

Most citizens have a choice as between Hughes and Wilson, ranging from intense partisanship to mild preference, but the happiest fact about the situation is that although they differ widely in type and habits of thought, the two men named by the leading political parties represent a quality of citizenship which—even in this time of extreme stress—justifies a feeling of national security that can be affected only relatively by the outcome of the election.

EXPERIENCE CONTRADICTS

The state conservation commission proposes to sell portions of public park lands suitable for farming, and to employ the funds so created in improving the remaining state lands. The idea is unsound.

The natural park loses that special quality which makes it a park, when its vistas are constantly interrupted by domestic views; every farm or settlement means that the wild life of the vicinity will disappear.

In addition there is the broad principle, held by states and municipalities everywhere, that the rapidly vanishing public lands should be held to covetously. Had the urgent appeal of the late J. W. Losey to the city of La Crosse been heeded, we should now have a wonderful city park system and the enhanced value of the lands he advised the city to hold fast to would have made the plan a gold mine for the municipality.

The proposed sale of state lands may pass now, in the hurdy-gurdy of commercialized politics, but in a future day it will not escape the condemnation of history.

Out of the Mouths of Kids
Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, tells that story:

"A schoolteacher was questioning he class on general knowledge.
"Now, girls," she said, "what is the most wonderful thing that a man has ever made?"

"The class was silent as the grave, but presently one small girl's hand went up and a triumphant look over-spread its owner's face:

"Please, miss, I know—a living for his wife and family," she said."

Scotch Frugality Again

There appears to be no good and valid reason why this story should be laid on a Scotchman except that such stories are always laid on Scotchmen.

A cannily citizen of Dundee entered a chemist's shop and told the proprietor he wanted three-pence worth of morphine.

"What do you want it for?" asked the apothecary.
"Tuppence," answered the customer without a moment's hesitation.

What They Say

The two girls were walking along a suburban avenue, talking about their best young men, of course. At least, one of them was.

"Charley was up to see me last night," she said.

"That's twice in a week, isn't it?"
inquired the other.

"Yes." And she blushed and giggled.

"I suppose he'll come three times in the next week?"

"I suppose so."

"And four times the next?"

"That's what brother says."

"And five times the next?"

"That's what sister says."

"And six times the next?"

"That's what auntie says."

"And seven times the next?"

"That's what papa says."

"And then what?"

"Then we'll get married; that's what everybody says."

"And then what?"

"Then I won't see him any more of an evening; that's what mamma says."

THE TRIBUNE'S
DAILY
TRAVELETTE

(By Niksah)

THE CATHEDRAL OF MEXICO

This is the greatest of Mexican churches and one of the greatest religious buildings in the world. Immensity and splendor are typical of it throughout. In size it is over four hundred feet long and two hundred wide. It has seventeen entrances and numerous domes and steeples.
There are twenty-one bells in its bel-tries and the largest is ten feet wide and sixteen feet high, while its sweet note may be heard for six miles.

Its great altar is a thing of magnificence, supported by pillars of green malachite with capitals of solid gold, and surrounded by a massive railing of silver, gold and copper, which was made in China and cost a million dollars.

Everything about the edifice is on a titanic scale. The organ has 2,500 pipes. The pillars that support its roof are eighteen feet thick and 180 feet high.

This great church was begun by the Spaniards in 1573 and took nearly a century to complete. It cost two million dollars, and ornaments worth nearly that much were presented by rich Spaniards. Jose de la Borda gave a golden chalice encrusted with jewels worth $300,000. He was a wealthy miner. Later he lost everything and asked the return of the gift. This was granted by the church authorities. Borda sold the wonderful cup for a third of its value.

This church is a splendid relic of the "glory that was Spain," of the Spain that found and conquered a new world with invincible courage and cruelty, gathered half the gold of the world, and spent it with barbaric extravagance. The power, the love of immensity and of lavish ornament for its own sake, the gloom, the dignity and the passion for worship which marked the greatness of Spain are all preserved and symbolized in this great church.

There is one thing about it which perhaps mirrors the heart of modern Mexico, too. So many persons have committed suicide by leaping from the great belfry that the authorities have built a jail around the top of it.

"Yes, that will be good, and Cal-ly's husband can be brought on."

"Surely," agreed Ricky. "We'll seem quite old-fashioned, everybody married to everybody else. Don't worry."

Miss Varney had cheered up wonderfully. "Vera's mother is coming," said she. "Why can't—" she paused and turned as beautiful a pink as the rose in her kerchief, "her father being here, too," she stammered.

Ricky understood her poorly expressed idea, but he frowned. "There are the biscuits, though, she always takes them around with her, Marjory and Kenneth."

"Biscuits?"

"The second baking," explained
Rickey.

"But if Mr. Morgan is not coming, couldn't they be Appley's for just a few days?"

"We can try, anyway," said Ricky hopefully. "I should think they could, that they would be glad to," he nodded enthusiastically, as Miss Varney brightened more and more with every word he said. "Things will come out."

"Get out of here, do you hear me?"

Get out of here, I say! No strange man is allowed in these grounds—"

A high shrill voice reached them from the other side of the hedge, chattering to bits the evening calm.

Miss Varney rose hastily to her feet, all the brightness leaving her face, the immobility of the competent secretary enveloping her in its impenetrable folds as she slipped the book back into its hiding-place and hurried to the gate, Ricky after her.

"No, sir; you can't. Go at once,
I say, go at once, or I'll call my mistress."

Miss Varney reached the gate and opened it before Ricky could help her. Mrs. Bingham's nurse, head up, cap bows quivering with indignation, stood facing the fourth assistant gardener, as he sought to take the path to the stables. Behind her, clinging to her skirts and peeping forth like two frightened chicks, were the children. Down the porch steps, hastening toward them across the lawn, her thin face ghastly white, her long ringed fingers clasped in dismay, came Mrs. Bingham.

"Maggy, what is it, what is it?"
she cried.

Reuben Rubenstein, lean and dark and handsome, shabby hat on the back of his head, black eyes flashing, half amused, half angry, wholly disgusted, strove to make himself understood above the nurse's shrill rebuke. Miss Varney laid her hand on the girl's arm.

"Maggy, be still," she ordered.

"No strange man—" shrilled the girl, her round stupid face flushed.

"Maggy is right," panted Mrs.
Bingham as she snatched the two children to her, "I can not allow a stranger—"

Miss Varney half laughed with vexation. "He is not a stranger—" she cried firmly, leaving the girl for the mistress. "He is Reuben, Miss Appley's gardener."

"Bah," cried the nurse, "the stupid creature, and why didn't he say so?"

Reuben met the merry glance in Miss Varney's eyes and his irritation vanished. Touching his hat to her in frank and instinctive admiration, which afterward made him furious when he thought about it, he forbore to answer and went around the house to the stables.

"Go in at once, Maggy," ordered the still agitated Mrs. Bingham, "and take the children. You see, Miss Varney," she added as the maid departed, "you see I can not permit strange men—"

"Certainly," soothed Miss Varney, all tact and gentleness. "I suppose all mothers are worried lest kidnappers—"

"Yes, yes, indeed," agreed Mrs.
Bingham vaguely, her eyes and apparently her thoughts still on the retreating maid and the children.

"Kidnapers, of course, and detectives. Will you kindly request the gardener to see that no strange men of shabby appearance be allowed to approach the house? Thank you."

She nodded hastily and hurried after the children.

Miss Varney turned to Ricky in comical dismay. Ricky patted her shoulder.

"Never mind, never mind," he soothed. "I'll telegraph Sammy and we will get along somehow, only don't you worry. I can't bear to have you worry." His voice fell softly.

The long shadows enveloped them and from the flower garden came the sweet clear note of the thrush. Ricky put out his hand and Miss Varney laid her little plump one in it. He raised it to his lips.

"Trust me," he whispered gently.

But Miss Varney's low reply was lost in the clear sweet call from the flower garden.

CHAPTER IX

The Reubenstiens' Window

And Hogan's folks lived on the top floor of what Van Tuyl refused to call a "cheap" apartment house.

"Cheap is a stigma of contempt," he explained to Maude as she skillfully drew up beside the curb and stopped the car exactly in front of their destination. "Because these people are poor, they should not be designated by words of contempt."

"Certainly not," agreed Maude, while Nelly's tender heart fluttered gratefully. "Reuben was poor but there was no reason for any of them to 'look down on him.'"

Peace and contentment, boiled cob-bage, broken toys and an enormous phonograph reigned supreme over the Hogans' home.

"How do you do," cried Maude

There is a Real Difference

Cream of tartar, derived from grapes, is used in Royal Baking Powder because it is the best and most healthful ingredient known for the purpose.

Phosphate and alum, which are derived from mineral sources, are used in some baking powders, instead of cream of tartar, because they are cheaper.

If you have been induced to use baking powders made from alum or phosphate, use Royal Baking Powder instead. You will be pleased with the results and the difference in the quality of the food.

NEWS NOTES—MOVIELAND

67 DAISY DEAN

Broad, human, sympathetic lovableness, reflected in the soft shimmer of her eyes and her snow white hair, have endeared Mary Maurice to all her co-workers and to an ever-growing host of admirers.

Not only is she the "mother confessor" to all her "boys" and "girls" of the vitagraph company, who find in Mother Maurice a great wealth of human kindness and tenderness, but on the screen these same heart appealing emotions have registered just as strongly.

Perhaps the studios life of her earlier years is in part responsible for her sympathetic kindness, or perhaps her contact with the world latter, in professional life, has divulged to her aches of the human heart.

Nearly fifty years ago when her "silver strands were golden," Miss Maurice started her professional career in Pittsburg in a farce, but gravitated toward Shakespearean roles, with John McCullough, Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barret, and then with Joseph Jefferson, in "Rip Van Winkle."

On the screen her smile, radiating her wonderful personality, has made her so beloved as to be called "The Mother of the Movies" and her portrays in "The Sins of the Mothers" and "The Battle Cry of Peace" are fine examples of her art.

NUT COMEDIANS OF PLEASANT MEMORY BOOED IN AGAIN

When variety comedy teams are mentioned in La Crosse by the "first nighters" club, there is one pair of fun mixers whose names are sure to come into the conversation. They are Kenny and Hollis, who caused a riot of laughter in their appearance at the Majestic three years ago, and the announcement that they will return with their new scream, entitled "Freshie's Initiation," is everything but a cause for tears. The duo comes straight from "big time" on the eastern seaboard to take first place on a good bill of vaudeville opening at the La Crosse theater.

Thursday for three days, La Crosse Elks and their ladies will remember them for the entertainment they gave at a social session during their visit here.

The balance of the program has a wide range of entertainments. The Klitties, in a Scotch bounding wire performance are startlingly clever and offer something out of the ordinary in gymnastic stunts.

Sixteen people, one of the largest aggregations of vaudeville performers here for several weeks will appear in the five acts.

Davis and Kitty bring a snappy divertissement to the program in the form of a singing and talking surprise. The Five Florimonds have a novelty ladder balancing number rated high by critics of the stage.

Not the least by any means are the Merry Married Men, five brisk young fellows who are due to entertain in their singing sketch entitled "The Matrimonial Mixup." They are wizards of harmony.

TO THE PUBLIC

(Advertisement)

I wish to tell one and all who may be afflicted as I was, that I, the undersigned, have been afflicted for over 12 years with what a number of surgeons called a cancer. It was on my right temple, almost on the pulse vein. It was called a slowly creeping spider cancer. I went to see one of the well known doctors in La Crosse, and after a thorough examination, he told me that he nor no other surgeon could do anything for me as it was on the pulse vein. A leading physician of Bangor told me the same. Another doctor of La Crosse, whom I went to see, told me my life hung on a thread and that no knife could save me and that I was liable to bleed to death. As a last resort I was told by a doctor to try Mrs. Cohen of La Crosse, who used a plaster to cure cancers which would remove any external cancers or tumors of any kind. I went to Mrs. Cohen and now am happy and glad to tell everyone how I was cured. After her first treatment was applied I did not lose one drop of blood up to the time it was healed. I can't say too much for the good of that work as I was just about ready to give up living. I want everyone who reads this to understand that every word I say here is true. I, the undersigned, live in Bangor, Wisconsin, and if at any time anyone wants to know more, come to see me or write to me and I will gladly tell you all about the treatment, as I think it is the only cure for external cancer or tumors. My address is,
W. M. PISKE,

LEFT HAND A MASS OF PIMPLES

Started With Water Pimples Between Fingers. Was Swollen. Could Not Put it in Water.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"My skin trouble started with a few water pimples between the fingers of my left hand. My hand was red and inflamed and it itched so I had to do something, so I would rub it with a rough cloth until it looked as if it were ready to burst and bleed, and I was kept awake at night with it. It got to be a mass of pimples inside and out, and was swollen, and I could not put it in water nor use it much."

"A friend told me how Cuticura Soap and Ointment helped her so I got them, and my hand was entirely healed." (Signed) Miss Norma Lee, 157 W. Main St., Battle Creek, Mich., Aug. 6, 1915.

MARGUERITE CLARK BELIEVES IN FAIRIES

When lovers meet and woo and wed do the silly geese think that they are determining their own fates? Do the swains believe that they are so handsome that the girls cannot resist them and do the lassies think that it is their laughing black eyes and saucy smiles that lure the men to propose? Then they ought to pause in their laughter some night and they might catch a faint whisper behind them. It is the fairies discussing whether or not they are suited to each other! If the fairies decide that they are ill-mated, they will quarrel and part. If they seem to the little eaves-droppers to be ideally matched, then they will kiss.

That, at least, is what the Little Lady Eileen firmly believes in the Famous Players production of that name in which Marguerite Clark is starring at the Bijou theater this week. For Eileen is Irish, with all the rare charm and all the imaginative gift of the Irish—and she believes in the fairies with all her heart and soul.

The creative genius of Director Dawley is given free rein in this production, the settings are exquisite and the story is so very unusual as to be fascinating.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens so Naturally Nobody can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

STELLAR ARTISTS IN NEW BREESE PICTURE

An unusually strong cast will be seen in support of Edmund Breese, the eminent dramatic actor, when "The Weakness of Strength," the newest Popular Plays and Players release on the Metro program, comes to the Strand theater tonight.

Clifford Bruce, himself a star and the leading man in many important stage and screen productions, has the part of "Bill Jackson," the rival and sworn enemy of "Dan Gaynor," the character portrayed by Mr. Breese. Ormi Hawley, famous as the "Belle of the Navy" and long the most popular star of the Lubin studios, has the leading female role, while Evelyn Brent, one of the most popular young actresses on the screen, who has been seen with Mr. Breese in most of his recent offerings on the Metro program, has the ingenue part. Others in the cast are little Florence Moore and Clifford B. Gray.

WOMEN SAVE $5 USING GASOLINE

Dry clean your dresses, suits, silks, yokes, gloves, draperies, etc.

Save $5 to $10 by doing your own dry cleaning. Here is a simple and inexpensive way to clean and brighten children's coats, suits, caps, woolen garments, Swiss, lawn, organdie and chiffon dresses, kid gloves and shoes, furs, neckties, ribbons, silks, satins, lace, yokes, silk shirtwaists, draperies, rugs, in fact, any and everything that would be ruined with soap and water.

Get two ounces of solvite at any drug store and put it in two gallons of gasoline, where it readily dissolves. Then put in the goods to be cleaned. After a little rubbing out they come looking as clean and fresh as new. You will find nothing fades, shrinks or wrinkles, requiring no pressing.

Any woman can do home dry cleaning in a few moments at little cost and save lots of money. It is as simple and easy as laundering, and you can't make a mistake. Your grocer or any garage will supply the gasoline, and your druggist will sell you two ounces of solvite which is simply a gasoline soap. Then a wash-bowl or large dishpan completes your home dry cleaning outfit.

BIGGEST PONTOON IN WORLD LAUNCHED AT NORTH M'GREGOR

M'GREGOR, Iowa.—(Special.)—If the present plans carry the huge new pontoon for the west channel of the Mississippi river will be launched at North McGregor Sunday afternoon, Oct. 15. Construction work on the immense craft has been in progress for a year on the Prairie du Chien bank of the river in the shipyards near the Keewatin Academy. S. Ingham of the bridge department of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway company having had charge of the work.

The pontoon is similar in structure to the one which was built and launched in the east channel in 1914. Two trainloads of material have been used in building it, 514,300 feet of timber having been required for the construction of the hull. The lumber was brought from the state of Washington. Some of the timbers were so long that three flat cars were required to carry them. Every stick of lumber has been treated with creosote, soaking up about twelve pounds to the cubic foot. This treatment, though it has been enormously expensive will be economy in the end, the engineers say, as the durability of the bridge will be greatly increased by reason of it.

The pontoon is 276 feet 4 inches long, 55 feet wide and the posts which support the railway tracks stand 27 feet 6 inches above the deck. By the aid of these posts the automatic hoisting device is strong enough to carry the heaviest trains and can be operated by one man in raising or lowering the tracks to correspond with the stage of the river and the trestle work at either end after the pontoon has been placed in position in the channel.

The McGregor-Prairie du Chien pontoon bridge is said to be the largest pontoon bridge in the world. It was patented and built by John Lawler of Prairie du Chien in 1874 at the time of the completion of the first railroad from Iowa into Minnesota. The builder made a fortune out of his venture, owning and controlling the bridge for many years and receiving a toll of a dollar for every car which passed over it. The Milwaukee railway company bought the pontoon of Mr. Lawler and has operated it for many years. The distance between the Iowa and Wisconsin shores at the point of location of the pontoons is about 6,000 feet. The river being divided into two navigable channels at this part of its course is satisfactory as indicated by two pontoons. They are swung open about 1,000 times a season. This frequent opening and the excessive deflection under the heavy load of rail traffic make the life of the pontoons comparatively short, it being necessary to renew them about every fifteen years. That the bridge though unique among bridge structures is satisfactory in indicated by the fact that the Milwaukee company is placing a new pontoon at this time.

SUPREME COURT EXPLAINS RULE IN STUDENT VOTE CASE

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 11.—In a short but decisive concurring opinion, the Wisconsin supreme court Wednesday through Justices Marshall and Winslow further explains the idea of the court and its reasoning in the student voting cases at Madison. The opinion is important because it lays down the controlling rules as to voting.

"To acquire a voting residence in an election district one must have made it his fixed habitation (1) for no merely temporary purpose, (2) without present intention of removal elsewhere or return to his former abode for residence purposes, and (3) with intention of returning to such habitation whenever absent therefrom," says the concurring opinion. "The purpose is not necessarily temporary because it is expected to end at some time more or less remote in the future. Practically all human purposes have this quality."

"On this subject two general propositions may be laid down: viz: if the student has a family of his own and removes the same to the college town and supports them there or if being separated from his father's family and earning his own way wholly or substantially, he removes to the college town, these are persuasive circumstances more or less conclusive tending to show an acquisition of a voting residence there."

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If your Back hurts or Bladder bothers you, drink lots of water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of hot water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and charming as a young girl's after applying some Danderine. Also try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff, cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few week's use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it, surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.

DODGERS DISPLAY GREATEST SPIRIT IN DIAMOND ANNUALS

Rushing Tactics of Robins Put Into Full Swing Against Carrigan's Bat- tlers

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Oct. 11.—His- tory does not show any team with the undaunted spirit of the Dodgers, not even excepting the wonderful Braves of 1914. The Braves got the jump in their plunge to victory over the Athletics, while the Dodgers in their world's series with the Red Sox have had to fight from a corner where they were partly submerged by two defeats.

The forceful, rushing tactics which have nailed the hide of many a National flinger to the gates of Ebbets field, got into full action Tuesday. Led by Jack Coombs and Ivan Olson they took the scalp of Carl Mays and were ready to repeat Wednesday against Dutch Leonard or Ernie Shore, or any other slab artist Bill Carrigan may elect.

The Dodgers had the backing of a crowd which howled and cheered itself blue in the face all through the conflict. Only half the size of the Boston crowds, the Brooklyn rooters made twice as much noise and went through all the motions of an enthusiastic party. Even after the game was ended they kept at it by peppering the Boston Royal Rooters with cushions as the august body moved around the field to the strains of "Tessie."

All the Dodgers have needed in this series was actual proof that Bill Carrigan's flingers were not the acme of perfection. Having proved that, their fighting spirit should bubble joyously.

Red Sox Outplayed
The Red Sox were out-generalled and out-played every time the occasion for action arose Tuesday. Bill Carrigan's "air-tight" infield was found to possess air-holes and, although only one error pushed its way into the box score, the dash and pep in fielding that has been displayed in the other title contests was missing.

Boston slab star was called to the mound at the start of the sixth inning when Mays had been nipped for four runs and seven hits.

RILEY IS FIRED

BOSTON, Oct. 11.—Secretary Edwin L. Riley of the Red Sox on Tuesday received a letter from President J. J. Lannin of that club, now in Brooklyn, that "his services were no longer required."

President Lannin gave no explanation in his letter.

SOUTH DAKOTA BAPTISTS MEET

MITCHELL, S. D., Oct. 11.—Mitchell is entertaining during the remainder of this week the 35th annual convention of the South Dakota Baptist association. Three hundred delegates and visitors, including leading clergymen and laymen of the denomination throughout the state, are in attendance.

NORMAL SECONDS WILL GO ALONG ON BIG JAUNTS

The first scrimmage for normal football men since their tussle with the Winona normal here last Saturday occurred in the normal oval Tuesday evening as the feature of the second practice of the week. Naturally enough, the firsts were easily victorious but not by a large margin. Announcement made by Coach Sputh that the second team would be taken along to River Falls for one of the most important games of the season there added considerable zest to the second team spirit. This announcement came as a complete surprise following the statement that the seconds would be sent to Winona, would meet the Minnesota Aggies at St. Paul, providing the firsts are required to play here on that date, and would secure other contests with smaller teams in this vicinity. The decision to take two teams to River Falls on November 10 follows the custom adopted by the up-state huskies in bringing their two aggregations to La Crosse last season for the game which was to decide the championship of the northern section of the Wisconsin normal conference. On next Saturday the normals meet the Dubuque German college and genuine aggregation on the La Crosse gridiron.

BELL'S CHARGES SHOW WORLD OF PEP IN PRACTICE

The high school football team showed more pep and ginger in the practice Tuesday afternoon, which was the first since Friday, than at any other time this season. Not one of the fellows was hurt badly in the Reedsburg game, and Weeks, who will be out a few days with a sore hip, will be in shape for the Tomah game next Saturday. Coach Bell assured the student body, Schick, who was borrowed from the seconds for Reedsburg game, has been retained on the firsts, and is giving the regular linemen a stiff fight for a regular berth on the team. Bleakley, who kicked nine goals after touchdowns out of nine tries Saturday, has been presented with a pair of new kicking shoes and in the future he will do all the place kicking.

Princeton football players complain from lack of practice due to the rough condition of the field at Lake Minnawaska. No rough stuff goes on the gridiron nowadays—in practice.

Clouted Homer

Gardner

The third baseman of the Red Sox drove a ball over the right field fence in Ebbets Field Tuesday by ten feet in the third game of the third game of the world's series, the second homer of the series.

Veteran a Star

Jack Coombs

Coombs pitched six innings in faultless style against Boston Wednesday, but felt himself weakening when Gardner drove his homer out of the yard. He himself called Pfeffer to his relief.

Cleveland won 7 out of 21 games with the Red Sox this season. When shows the Sox lost one-third of their team when Speaker went to the Fohlies.

In a recent football game at Allentown, the Muhlenburg eleven defeated Bloomsburg 85 to 0. This must have been a case of the winner being all in at the finish.

Ad Wolgast lost the decision to an unknown in a four-round bout the other night. Maybe it was Willie Ritchie disguised as a wop.

Mike Gibbons, the St. Paul phantom, can't see his way clear to performing in New York for the mammas offered by the Gotham promoters.

According to ringside reports Freddie Welch continues to take a beating in every bout, as well as winning the decision and retaining the lightweight crown.

COOMBS AND OLSON ARE CREDITED FOR VICTORY OF ROBINS

Veteran of Slab Stood Bostonese on Their Heads and Olson's Club Brought In Runs

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Oct. 11.—The two kings of nerve, Coombs and Olson, have put the Dodgers back in the running in the world's series against Boston. Coombs' clever box work and the batting of Olson, derived infielder, who virtually lost the first game single-handed by his errors, put it right up to the Dodgers to come through Wednesday. If the Robinson terrors can turn in the same kind of fielding they gave Jack Coombs and Jeff Pfeffer, they should have a chance to even matters up by the time the sun sets.

To Coombs must be given most of the credit for the victory the Dodgers turned in Tuesday. It was his presence which inspired the Dodgers with confidence, that fired them with the unrestrainable determination to win. Veteran that he is, and cold as the day was, Colby Jack turned himself loose. His fast ball whizzed over the plate with all its old-time speed and he had a slow breazing curve at times that stood the Boston champions on their heads.

It was evident when Coombs called in Jeff Pfeffer from center-field to finish the game that a definite plan of defense had been agreed upon by the Dodger strategists. They all knew what he was capable of doing if he went at top speed. They knew also that he could not work at top speed for nine innings. To that end, Pfeffer had been warming up almost from the start of the game, and he was ready when the break came.

Up to the time Larry Gardner lifted the ball over the right field wall for a home run in the seventh inning Coombs had been going fine. He had allowed only six hits. That the slip was coming was forecast in the sixth when the Red Sox got to Coombs for two hits in a row and two runs.

Coombs' name stands today alongside those of Christy Mathewson and Chief Bender as the winner of five world's series conflicts. In fact, history shows that Colby Jack has never lost a world's title game.

Ivan Olson is only slightly less in the glare of the calcium than Coombs as a result of the last game. The Terrible Swede was credited with a pair of base knocks as his contribution to the afternoon's entertainment, and one of them was a mighty three-base clout which jammed up against the temporary left field bleachers and put the winning runs over for Esquire Ebbets.

The Dodgers' victory has had little effect on the betting. Odds still stand at 10 to 6 and 10 to 7 that the Red Sox will take the series, but betting on Wednesday's game turned to almost an even money proposition. All the pent-up world's series enthusiasm of Brooklyn burst right out with a bang.

Park Packed
The baseball crazy bugs packed almost every inch of space in the park save for a line of seats in the upper tier. At the close of the game they surged upon the field, and following a band parade about the diamond. Hundreds of seat cushions, hats and banners were hurled high in the air as the loyal sons of Flatbush danced in jubilation. A defeat for Brooklyn would certainly have meant the beginning of the end of all their world's championship hopes. As it is they have a fighting chance, and they demonstrated that they are some fighters.

After an extended lapse, Jake Daubert got his bat in action. He made three hits out of four times up, one of them a triple. Jake tried to stretch this into a home run, but was called out at the plate by Umpire O'Day. It was a hair line decision. Practically all the players on both teams came bounding out on the field and the Dodgers surrounded the umpire filling the air with shouts of protest and gesticulating wildly. Hank took a walk down the third base line and let them cool off. Olson showed better, getting a single and a triple, the latter driving in two runs.

Only Error to Gardner
The extra base swatters among the Red Sox were confined to Hooper and Gardner. Wallowing Harry Hooper crashed out a terrific drive for three cases in the sixth and later counted on Shorten's single. Hooper performed in great shape in the field also. The only error of the game was charged to Gardner. He made a wild throw on a bunt by Olson. Olson caught the Red Sox' third baseman flat-footed when he laid his slow roller down in the fourth.

The hardest hit ball of the game was Gardner's for a home run. It was high and went like a shot over the right field fence.

And the girl who counts on her fingers never overlooks the engagement finger.

SELF-THUMBERS VS. BACK-LASHES

My Dear Buck:

There has been quite a bit of hectic comedy pulled off regarding the self-thumbing, or more commonly called antibacklash reels, some of the writers of fishing dope going right up into the clouds at the mere mention of a self-thumber. All for the simple reason that they think it is unsportsmanlike to take advantage of the little fishes by using a mechanical device which makes casting easier. A big part of this highbrow stuff is bunk. We admit that there is a lot of pleasure derived from artistically thumbing the line and for the fellow who has the time to devote to learning thumbing, and it cannot be picked up in a day, we say go to it, old man, and you'll enjoy it. But to the great big army of every-once-in-a-while fishermen, who plug away on the reel most of the time to keep the wolf from getting too well acquainted there is nothing better than the self-thumber. You can learn to cast with a half hour's practice. Of course you won't be an expert at placing your bait, but you have the great advantage of the thumbing attended to, and that's nine-tenths of the operation of making the cast.

The fact that you see more of these reels each year shows that they are popular with the week-end fisherman. No matter how proficient a fellow may be in the casting game, every now and then he piles up a backlash that makes the air assume a beautiful purple from the deep muttered words that escape through his exhaust. After a couple of hours' practice the beginner can cast his 30 or 40 feet with less backlashes than the old-timer at the game with the ordinary reel. If the beginner be a particularly careful man, backlashes will be almost entirely eliminated.

For moonlight fishing or any night fishing the antibacklash reel holds the center of the stage. At this game you cannot beat it, and as many of the largest old bass are caught late in the evening or at night, even the old timer should carry one tucked away in his tackle box for this kind of work. I know of nothing more conducive to the flow of cuss words than to get a backlash on a dark night and try to disentangle it with the aid of a pocket flashlight. Unless it be that you have a fine old bass flopping around in the water at the other end of your line while you are working out the puzzle.

There are two might good self-thumbers on the market. The South Bend antibacklash and the Redifor-Pflueger antibacklash. Both of these reels are well made on the lines of the other famous quadruples with, of course, the added value of being a great little help to the beginner because they put the death sign on the backlashes.

The South Bend nicks your bank roll to the tune of $9. This is a well-made reel of highly polished German silver. The spool and gear journals are of tool steel and built on the long low design considered the best for bait casting. The bushings are of phosphor bronze and the sand-thrust is supported by adjustable jeweled spool journal caps that are handy for oiling. The gears are made of solid Tobin bronze, and they should wear until the cows come home.

Self-Thumber or Straight Caster
On the South Bend antibacklash reel there is a small wire across the front of the reel under which the line is threaded. When the cast is made this wire is lifted by the position of the rod and as the line works out, and the lure slows up, the weight of the wire causes the necessary pressure on the spool to slow it up the same as natural thumbing of the line. On the crank side of the reel is a tension screw that can be adjusted with a slight turn to accommodate any weight of lure. By turning the tension screw a little further you can use the reel as an ordinary caster and at that it will show up with any in its class.

The Pflueger-Redifor antibacklash reel is sure a beautiful tool, and besides having the looks of a thoroughbred it is serviceable and durable, having a bunch of ancestors behind it in the reel family that it can be proud of. The great old feature that makes this reel so successful as a self-thumber are the Flegel centrifugal thumbers. To look at this reel you will see nothing to indicate that it is a self-thumber, but hidden away under the end plates are a pair of little flanges attached to the rear end of the spool. The force of the spinning spool throws these flanges against the rim of the end plates and governs the action of the spool automatically. This sounds mighty simple, but you have to see the reel working to appreciate its real value. Spiral Tooth Gears Great Casters.

In finish the Pflueger-Redifor is made of German silver with adjustable jeweled oil cup. Bearings are of phosphor bronze, which are practically indestructible, and with generated spiral tooth gears that give the easy-running action to a reel and fit snug at all times without slowing up the works.

Aside from the fact that the Pflueger-Redifor is a sure-fire self-thumber, it is made along the lines of the regular quadruple multiplier and its finish gives it a classy appearance, at the same time the dull finish does not flash over the water, when making a cast. The spool is long and carries from 60 to 100 yards of line, according to size. This reel stands you back $5.00.

The self-thumber is a mighty fine reel for the beginner, especially with the fellow who has limited time to devote to the finest of sports, and as a side tip, let me tell you that often makes a good fisherman out of you. Lady-who-sometimes-goes-along, because she can cast with ease after a few throws.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Any questions on fishing, tackle or equipment will be answered. When detailed answers are desired inclose a stamped, addressed envelope. Send queries to Dixie Carroll, care Sporting Editor.

Question: In "Fly-Casting for Bass" you say "the nearer the water you are the less chance the fish have of seeing you," how do you explain this?—J. M. B. Answer: The closer an object is to the water the less chance a fish has to see it, particularly if the fish be 30 or 40 feet away, as in wading. One can be seen more easily by a fish if elevated above the water, as on a bank or raised shore. Often you can see the bass at some distance from the shore, but seldom while wading. If you were 20 feet above the water the fish for a radius of 50 or 75 feet could see you. Of course fish close up could see you at any time, but you seldom land those or a fly.

Question: Is the fall fishing run bass good?—H. B. Answer: Fall bass fishing is generally fine, in fact you will find no better time than during what is termed the Indian summer. The bass are full of ginger and fight to a fare-you-well. They take the fly readily at that time and the artificial plugs come into their own after a midsummer layoff. Both stream and lake fishing are good.

Marjorie's Night Letter

BY CATHERINE CRANMER

(Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Marjorie arrived in the middle western city on a hot August afternoon. She had thought that New York could get hot until she walked across the streets of this overgrown young city and felt the blistering heat of the tar that oozed from the wooden blocks used as street paving. She regretted having decided to stop even a few hours there on her way to the Rocky mountains.

Roger Davis, her first sweetheart, had gone to this city five years before to practice law, and Marjorie had given him her promise not to become engaged to another until Roger's first year's work either proved or disproved his professional mettle. The promise had been easy, but a gay social season and a trip to Paris and European watering places the next summer dimmed the memory of Roger, and her letters gave him so much evidence of her growing indifference that he refrained from pressing his suit, lest the indifference change to dislike. But that was where he erred, for the following winter in New York produced so many attractions that the distant Roger was entirely displaced from his insecure position in Marjorie's regard.

As her train sped across the harvest fields of the middle west, and drew near to the city where Roger lived, Marjorie began to feel a desire to see this place, which, she felt, must embody some of the honest energy so characteristic of Roger. As she crossed the street in the shopping district, however, the hot tar almost melted her sentiment about the city. She went into a department store to avoid the heat outside. As she entered an elevator to go to the tea room on the top floor, two young girls in smartly tailored linen suits preceded her.

"She must possess some hidden charm beside that lovely country place tucked away among the elms," said one girl, with a smile.

"Hidden. Not at all. At least not hidden from Roger Davis, who has been the family lawyer for two years, with every chance to know the financial charms of the only daughter. It's no wonder if they wed." The speaker was obviously proud of her blase speech and manner.

"Now," said the first girl, with a pretty grimace. "But aren't we catty about this little romance?"

"Aren't we, really?" agreed her companion. "But a good salad and some ice tea will set us to purring. Let's get that table by the window."

The speakers passed on, but Marjorie abruptly re-entered the elevator. She felt an unreasoning resentment toward those girls for having jured in upon her reminiscences with the intimation that Roger was about to wed some unattractive girl for her money.

Leaving the department store, she crossed the street and entered a bank to have a traveler's check cashed. As she stood in a line of several waiting patrons she made a mental note of that bank's similarity to so many others in the preciseness of its rows of shiny window cages, the whiteness of its marble floor and the suavity of its liveried floor attendants. As she left the window after receiving her money, she became conscious that a man was standing near her, with his hat in his hand. Almost simultaneously there came a familiar voice in her ear.

"Marjorie!" exclaimed the man, and a queer, tremulous sensation took possession of her as she looked into the honest gray eyes of Roger Davis and felt the pressure of his strong hand.

"Roger!" she said, weakly, like an echo of his own greeting.

"You're remarkably unchanged," he said, and almost unconsciously he added, "In looks."

Marjorie looked at the firm lines about his mouth, at the sprinkling of gray at his temples and at the smiling frankness of his eyes.

"You are both changed and unchanged, I think," she said.

Little polished doors slid into place back of the shiny window cage and a general exodus of patrons igminated the bank's closing hour had come.

"I'm wondering what luck has brought you here," said Roger as they moved toward the door.

"It wasn't luck. It was—well, really, I hardly know," said Marjorie. "I merely stopped for a glimpse of this city. But tell me how you manage to live in this terrific heat?"

"And this from a New Yorker?" Roger shook his head ruefully. "But come with me and I'll show you the city's beauty spots and the loveliness of its environs. How long will you be here?"

"Until 8 o'clock this evening."

"We'll have just time to end our sight-seeing trip with dinner at the Country Club. Come!" said Roger enthusiastically.

At the curb they entered his dark gray roadster and for two hours glided through shady residential streets and pretty little parkways and out along a country roadway for many miles. Marjorie forgot the heat of the city and she forgot the disagreeable words she had heard in the department store elevator until reminded of them by Roger.

"That house on the hillside, over there is the Elms, the home of Miss Andrews, a client of mine," he said, and immediately Marjorie knew that the lovely, rambling house almost hidden by great elms belonged to the plain but wealthy girl referred to in that conversation in the elevator. And immediately she felt resentful toward Miss Andrews and angry at Roger by being enticed by her money.

"Is she as lovely as her home?" Marjorie, and the sarcasm in her voice made Roger wince. His reply was curt.

"She is lovelier than many, suppose who see only her appearance without knowing of her sterling traits."

It was, so, then, thought Marjorie. He was even trying to justify himself for pretending to like the plain girl. Marjorie abruptly changed the subject, determined to invite no further confidences. These hours with Roger had made her yearn for a return of their former close friendship, and perhaps for even more than that. She felt insanely jealous of the girl who made that impossible and felt stinging remorse for her own part in breaking up that friendship. But she resolved to make the most of her last hour with him and to be a royal loser. During the remainder of their drive and during their dinner on the Country Club, Marjorie was so gay and charming that Roger seemed to forget any ties which might bind him to another.

They had to take chances with a motor car to make Marjorie's train. As they hurried through the station Roger secured the evening newspapers from an alert newsboy. He gave the papers to Marjorie when he had seen her seated in her section of the sleeper. A headline on the outside page caught Marjorie's eye.

"Is that the Miss Andrews whose home we passed?" She pointed to the announcement of the heiress' engagement to an Eastern man, and waited eagerly for Roger's reply.

"The very one," said Roger, scanning the item, "and the man she is to marry is a brick."

"Then it wasn't true what they said?" The train men were hurrying back and forth in a way that made Marjorie know she might start at any moment and she felt she must know that this was not true of Roger.

"What wasn't true, dear?" Roger caught the eagerness of her voice and took her hand in his. Outside, a deep voice called, "All aboard!"

"That you are going to marry her for her money," with quick emphasis.

"You ought to know that I'm going to marry no girl for money, and only one for love," said Roger, and the miserable train began to creak and sway.

"Oh, then it was luck, after all, that brought me here!" said Marjorie, breathlessly. "But hurry, dear, or you'll be hurt getting off!"

"I'll not hurry until you tell me whether it was luck or love—that brought you here," Roger smiled defiantly into her eyes.

"It was love, dear; but please hurry." Some of the lightness of his heart seemed lent to his feet, for he sprang easily from the rapidly moving train and called back to Marjorie: "I'll say the rest, or part of it, in a night letter that will reach you at breakfast."

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OF LA CROSSE
LA CROSSE, WISCONSIN
Oct. 5, 1916.

The Wisconsin Business University of this city is worthy the patronage of any young man or woman desiring a business training. Parents can feel perfectly safe in sending their sons or daughters to La Crosse to attend the "WBU".

The equipment of the school is complete in every detail and includes the modern devices used in the best business offices today. The school is centrally located and specially adapted for business purposes. The rooms are large, well arranged, clean and wholesome; splendidly lighted, heated and ventilated; the student receives the personal assistance of the teachers at all times.

The management of the "WBU" is sound, progressive and practical, the school having the support and commendation of banks, clergymen, and leading business men of this city. The school for twenty-five years has had a sound moral and financial standing in this community.

We understand the graduates of this institution have been remarkably successful and are employed by many firms and corporations throughout the United States.

Very truly yours,

"If I were fifteen years of age again and wanted to be earning $25,000 a year in some great business by the time I was thirty, I would study to become a stenographer, and get into a manager's office."—Frederick Ireland, Official Reporter U. S. House of Representatives.

The principal shortcomings of young people without business education are: (1) their "modern education"; (2) ignorance of the principles of punctuation and capitalization; (3) inability to spell common English business words; (4) failure to give intelligent attention to business.—New York Sun.

"If a father wishes to give his son a legacy better than houses, land, gold or silver, let him give him a practical business education."—Horace Mann.

I have had much to do with stenographers in the last ten or fifteen years and I have come to rely very largely upon the stenographer and typewriter, and I need not say more to assure you of the high opinion I have of the profession, than that my wife is my assistant and has mastered a shorthand system and uses the typewriter.—William Jennings Bryan.

BAD ROADWAY IS CAUSE OF AUTO SPILL AT DAKOTA

DAKOTA, Minn. — (Special).—Saturday afternoon as James Seals and family were returning to Dakota they met a car in what appeared to be a good place to pass. There was a hole several feet deep which the tall grass prevented their seeing, one side of the car dropped into this, throwing the occupants against the side of the machine. The flying glass from the broken wind shield cut Mrs. Seals' eye. Mr. Seals was operating the car at a moderate rate of speed, and they fortunately escaped other injuries.

THE HASKIN LETTER

A Ship From Iceland

By Frederic J. Haskin

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—A few days ago a ship from Iceland, manned by Icelanders, docked here and was hailed by the newspapers as the first ship to reach America from that island since "Lief the Lucky" set foot on our coast a thousand years ago. As a matter of fact, a ship from Iceland reached our shores no longer than 1914; but that one does seem to have been the first arrival in modern times.

The immediate cause of this trip to America was that Iceland has been cut off by the war from its usual European markets and sources of supply. The consequences are that we may win this naturally rich island as a permanent customer; for New York is 300 miles nearer Iceland than is Liverpool by the shortest practicable route, and the United States has the very products that Iceland needs.

The first vessel that reached here from Iceland after the war brought a hundred tons of loose wool, and thirty-one carloads of herring, and it took back five hundred tons of petroleum for use in motor-boats, as well as flour, grain and other food supplies for the long winter. There is to be no famine in Iceland this year. In 1880 the supplies became scarce and a great many people emigrated to Canada. Such losses of population for the island can ill afford.

Iceland is in the midst of a great commercial and political awakening. Her fisheries are among the best in the world, and the people have just begun within the last few years to work them with modern appliances, and seek world markets for the product. They have need of motor-boats and oil and automobiles and shoes; and all of these things we can supply. They are also looking for a supply of paper upon which to print their eighteen newspapers; for in this matter the United States can not now give much help.

Another factor in the Icelandic industrial boom is the growing demand for the native ponies, many of which are now shipped to England for use in coal mines and for all other uses that a small, hardy, frugal horse will serve. It is said that the highest type of the Icelandic pony is becoming rare and that only inferior stock is being exported. This is certainly to be regretted, for the hardy little nags should have a wide field of usefulness in Canada, Alaska and other cold countries.

These Icelandic ponies are of a peculiar type, being accounted by scientists, a distinct species. Life on the frozen island has profoundly modified their habits. In the winter, they are unable to obtain enough forage or hay, and hence have formed the habit of eating dead fish. Dried codfish heads are a regular fodder for both cattle and horses in Iceland, and fresh catfish are also fed to the horses. The ponies are so addicted to a fish diet that in summer they will wander along the beaches looking for dead fish when grass is abundant. The effect of this animal food is to give the ponies great bottom mettle and fighting quality. In the old days, until the late seventeenth century horse-fighting was a favorite sport in Iceland, the plucky little stallions being pitted against each other as game cocks are in other countries. These fights are described in old Icelandic literature and are represented in old prints, where the owners are shown holding their

Women Once Invalids

Now in Good Health Through Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Say it is Household Necessity. Doctor Called it a Miracle.

All women ought to know the wonderful effects of taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound even on those who seem hopelessly ill. Here are three actual cases:

Harrisburg, Penn.—"When I was single I suffered a great deal from female weakness because my work compelled me to stand all day. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for that and was made stronger by its use. After I was married I took the Compound again for a female trouble and after three months I passed what the doctor called a growth. He said it was a miracle that it came away as one generally goes under the knife to have them removed. I never want to be without your Compound in the house."—Mrs. FRANK KNOBL, 1642 Fulton St., Harrisburg, Penn.

Hardly Able to Move.

Albert Lea, Minn.—"For about a year I had sharp pains across my back and hips and was hardly able to move around the house. My head would ache and I was dizzy and had no appetite. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, I am feeling stronger than for years. I have a little boy eight months old and am doing my work all alone. I would not be without your remedies in the house as there are none like them."—Mrs. F. E. Yoss, 611 Water St., Albert Lea, Minn.

Three Doctors Gave Her Up.

Pittsburg, Penn.—"Your medicine has helped me wonderfully. When I was a girl 18 years old I was always sickly and delicate and suffered from irregularities. Three doctors gave me up and said I would go into consumption. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and with the third bottle began to feel better. I soon became regular and I got strong and shortly after I was married. Now I have two nice stout healthy children and am able to work hard every day."—Mrs. CLEMENTINA DUERRING, 34 Gardner St., Troy Hill, Pittsburg, Penn.

All women are invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special advice—it will be confidential.

Some of the exhibits are by the United States army and navy. Others showing the purely industrial side of the participation of electricity in war—such as the moving of munitions machinery by motors were by private firms.

WOMEN SHOULD GET THIS HABIT AS WELL AS MEN

Don't eat bite of breakfast until you drink glass of hot water.

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.
